WILL JOIN FORCES.

General Yule Is Seeking to Make a Union With White.

REPORT OF LORD WOLSELEY.

British Commanders Expect to Unite Their Armies at Once.

ANXIETY CONTINUES IN LONDON.

Sir William MacCormac of the Royal College of Surgeons Will Aid the Medical Corps With the Army at Scene of Action.

London, Oct. 24.—The parliamentary secretary of the war office, George Wyndham, in the house of commons, announced that Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, the commander-in-chief of the forces, sums up the situation in Natal as follows: "General Yule has fallen back to effect a junction with Sir George Stewart White. He camped yesterday evening about 16 miles south of Dundee without seeing anything of the enemy during the march, and it has since been reported that all is well on the Weschank river.

"General White fought a successful action with an Orange Free State force on the road between Ladysmith and Newcastle and should join hands with General Yule this evening. General Yule reports that his wounded are doing well.

"The Boer wounded on our hands are treated just as our own, and I have every reason to believe that the Boers will treat any of our wounded in their hands in a similarly humane manner."

Mr. Wyndham added: "I may remind the house that the Transvaal is a party to the general convention."

Lord Wolseley further says: "I have also received from General Walker, at Cape Town, the following:

"The last message from Kimberley, Oct. 22, reports all well."

A question as to what arrangements had been made to employ civilian doctors to assist in the care of the wounded in South Africa, Mr. Wyndham said he was glad to take the opportunity of announcing that Sir William MacCormac, the distinguished president of the Royal College of Surgeons, had intimated his readiness to accompany General Sir Redvers Buller's force and place his great skill and ability at the disposal of the army medical authorities. Mr. Wyndham added: "We have not hesitated to accept this patriotic offer."

PASSING COMMENT

Upon the Stirring Events Occurring in South Africa.

London, Oct. 24.—The war office here has been attempting to explain the summary of the situation in Natal, furnished by the commander-in-chief of the forces, Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, to the house of commons.

His statement is now said to have created unnecessary alarm and it is asserted that what the official note called General Yule's retirement would be more accurately described as "a change of position for tactical reasons" and that the alarm for the safety of the wounded is not justified. It is further explained that the wounded could not be moved; but the fact that they had to be left to their fate while the British forces made a strategic movement to the rear shows the suspense of the house at the absence of subsequent news is amply justified and that the heavy fighting on Friday and perhaps Saturday is only a prelude to still sterner work.

In some quarters the view is taken that the second attack of the Boers has actually occurred and was so successful that General Yule's withdrawal was imperative and urgent to the extent of compelling him to leave his hospital in the hands of the Boers, while the more sanguine express the opinion that General Yule, far from retreating, has in reality advanced to meet the attack threatening Glencoe, leaving Dundee behind, safely sheltered from a Boer assault.

In the absence of authentic news there are a number of contradictory rumors afloat, but the most reasonable interpretation of the various reports seems to indicate that there was some artillery practice at Glencoe Saturday and Sunday, but no fighting at close quarters.

As, however, communication between Glencoe and Ladysmith, which was thought to have been restored by the British victory at Elandslaagte, has again been broken by the destruction of the railway bridge at Washchank, north of Ladysmith and between Elandslaagte and Glencoe, the difficulties of the British commander in Natal, Sir George Stewart White, in reinforcing Glencoe have been enormously increased and until the British forces at Ladysmith and Glencoe are united and the main body of the Boers is broken, the situation must remain disquieting for the British.

The afternoon newspapers here sharply criticize Lord Wolseley's summary of the Natal situation. They say it has a distinct resemblance to the statement of Spanish ministry when preparing their countrymen for news of the disaster at Santiago.

News has at last been received from Colonel Baden-Powell, dated Mafeking, Oct. 15. It confirms the report that in the armored train fight, the British had two men killed and 15 wounded, including Lieutenant Lord Charles Bentick of the Ninth Lancers, slightly wounded. The Boer loss was estimated at 53 killed and many wounded.

Latest From Kimberley. The latest advices from Kimberley under date of October 21 said the Boer attack was still proceeding and that large Boer forces in the neighborhood had destroyed big sections of the railroad line north and south of town. Many fugitives from neighboring villages have been imprisoned by the Boers.

Several ladies hearing that their husbands had been captured visited the Boer camp and were courteously received. Their intercession for their husbands was successful and the reunited families have arrived at Kimberley. The prisoners reported they were well treated. According to runners who have arrived at Kimberley from Kuruman, British Bechuanaland, the resident magistrate there has recently presided at a council of the native chiefs. He advised them not to participate in the war. The natives expressed satisfaction at the magistrates' explanations and promise to remain quiescent.

Lieutenant Barnes, who was wounded at the battle of Elandslaagte, is a brother of Violet Van Brugh, the well-known actress.

Germany has sent to follow the British forces in South Africa her military attaché in London, Captain Baron von Lutwitz, who married Miss Mammie Cary of Cleveland, O.

The British military authorities hope to have the wireless telegraph in operation in South Africa within three weeks, when it is hoped the difficulties expected from the cutting of wires will be obviated, as it will only be necessary to establish communication at a point at which the ordinary wires are intact.

An Eye on Russia.

London, Oct. 24.—The sailing of the channel squadron for Gibraltar is now regarded by the keenest observers as an indication that some unexpected attack upon British interests is possible. The magnitude of the preparations for the war in which are out of all proportion to the requirements of the military situation can be adequately explained on the theory that the government suspected that some great power would be tempted to seize the opportunity for striking a sudden blow or carrying out a deeply cherished policy. The quarter from which an attack of this kind may come is unmistakable. The Russian press has had license to criticize the English policy in South Africa in the most acrid way and a rumor that Herat may be occupied is already in the air. British commercial interests in Persia are so large that a Russian seizure of the commanding position in western Afghanistan would be a serious stroke, aimed directly against free trade.

Queen's Plain Words.

London, Oct. 24.—The ministers and their supporters are now realizing that they plunged into the war with reckless haste and the queen's messages—in which she speaks of "dearly-bought victories" and "dreadful loss of life"—indicate with a plainness which she has never before permitted herself to indulge in under like circumstances her disapproval of the war. The British forces in Natal have already lost in killed or wounded nearly 500 men in three days' fighting. The squadron of hussars and the section of mounted infantry which pursued the Boers after the first fight at Glencoe (last Friday) are still missing.

Europe Will Interfere.

Berlin, Oct. 24.—Telegrams from Brussels announce that in the Transvaal legation circle it is stated that France and Russia will not permit the annexation of the Transvaal and Orange Free State to England.

A HARBOR IN ALASKA

Demanded by Canada as a Preliminary to Arbitration.

DYEA AND SKAGWAY YIELDED

Unexpected Proposition From Sir Louis Henry Davies Relative to the Difference Over Alaskan Boundary.

London, Oct. 24.—the press is enabled to give authoritatively Canada's final proposition for a permanent settlement of the Alaska dispute.

It is very different from her former demands and was delivered to the United States Ambassador Choate by the Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, Sir Louis Henry Davies late the night before the latter sailed and dispatched to Washington by the officials of the United States embassy. It is as follows:

"That the boundary line be arbitrated upon terms similar to those imposed by the United States and Great Britain over Venezuela, particularly those provisions making 50 years' occupancy by either side conclusive evidence of title, occupancy of less than that period to be taken as equity allows under international law.

"That, as a condition precedent to and absolutely preliminary to arbitration, Skagway and Dyea would be conceded to the United States without further claim if Canada received Pyramid harbor."

In other words Canada gives up much of the disputed gold country in return for a seaport but stipulates that she must get the latter before she agrees to arbitrate the boundary line.

The propositions of Sir Louis Henry Davies were made privately and were apparently the result of an unexpected communication from his government for Sir Louis the day previous expressed no knowledge that he was empowered to make such sweeping proposals.

The Canadian statement has heretofore insistently denied the United States contention that Dyea and Skagway must first be ceded to the United States before further treating on the subject and his sudden change of front and the concession of the two such important points are apparently intended as a coup and Mr. Choate was found, to a certain extent, unprepared. The only reply that he could make was that he would inform the authorities at Washington and await their advice as his instructions did not contemplate such a change of base by Canada.

The press is reliably informed that Canada's new position was greatly influenced by imperial pressure and it can be stated definitely that Mr. Chamberlain advised concession as much as possible in order to gain a port of entry free from United States control with the professed reason that commercial advantages would accrue therefrom.

A Strong Naval Station.

But it is said that the ulterior motive is to increase British naval strength by making Pyramid Harbor a strong naval station.

Regarding the probable action of the United States in these altered conditions, British official opinion is that the United States, having been granted Dyea and Skagway, can not refuse to accept the identical form of arbitration they compelled England to take toward Venezuela. This course is contingent upon the United States, deciding that the old Bering country is more valuable than Pyramid Harbor.

Ex-Congressman James H. Lewis, who conferred with Messrs. Davies and Choate regarding the claims of the American miners involved in the disputed territory, is opposed to giving up Pyramid Harbor. He pointed out to Mr. Choate that Canada would have an important depot for storehouses and shipping, whence she could seriously undersell the United States and injure her trade in the Orient and also that Great Britain would secure invaluable strategic advantages.

At the commission's next sitting Minister Davies' strongly opposed the claims which he represented being considered in conjunction with the boundary dispute and Mr. Choate upheld this view, though Mr. Lewis has succeeded in securing assurance that they will be treated in conjunction with Canada's claims for seal destruction. Lewis said: "I am satisfied with the success of my mission. It is sure the American miners will now get justice."

Washington, Oct. 24.—The Forty-eighth volunteer infantry, now on duty at Fort Thomas, Ky., has been ordered to proceed to San Francisco on November 7, preparatory to embarking for the Philippine islands.

EIGHTEEN REASONS

Given For a New Trial By Counsel For Ingham and Newitt.

Newitt, the lawyers convicted last week of bribery and conspiracy in connection with the Jacobs-Kendig Yancaster revenue stamp counterfeiting plot, filed 18 reasons why the defendants should be given a new trial. The reasons given are in general that the verdict was against the law and the evidence and the court erred in overruling the defendant's objects to certain questions and in admitting certain evidence.

Irish Member Suspended.

London, Oct. 24.—While the house of parliament was discussing the report on the supplementary estimates, Patrick O'Brien, Parnellite member for Kilkenny City, declared that the hands of the British secretary of state for the colonies, Joseph Chamberlain, were as much stained with blood as those of any murderer who ever mounted the scaffold. The speaker called upon Mr. O'Brien to withdraw his remarks, but he refused to do so, whereupon the house by a vote of 316 to 26 resolved to suspend him.

Money Orders.

Howard, formerly of the Nebraska National Guard, at present living here, has written to Secretary of War Root, volunteering his services to take the place of his brother, the late Captain Guy Howard, who was recently killed during an engagement with the Filipino insurgents.

MONEY IN TREASURY

Cabinet Members Consider the Financial Stringency.

AMERICANS BUYING SHIPS

Will Be Allowed to Carry on Commerce in Philippines in Them. Relief For Negroes in Great Distress.

Washington, Oct. 24.—At the cabinet meeting the most important topic discussed was the condition of the treasury in its relation to the stringency of the money market. Nothing will be done in present to relieve the situation as it is believed in the natural course of events the heavy war expenditures will reduce the large surplus in the treasury.

The cabinet decided to allow vessels purchased by American citizens to engage in Philippine interisland trade. Under the laws of the United States, foreign vessels cannot engage in coastwise trade and as all the trading Spanish flag much embarrassment resulted. Many of these vessels have now passed into American hands and the secretary of war will shortly issue an order permitting them to fly the American flag and enjoy all the privileges of American register.

Information was placed before the cabinet showing that about 300 negroes employed by government contractors at Keywest had been thrown out of their jobs by the yellow fever at that point and that many of them were in destitute circumstances owing to the suppression of work.

The contractors will be informed that they must resume operations, at least to the extent of employing these men.

To Thank France.

Paris, Oct. 24.—It is understood that the visit paid by Sir Edmund J. Monson, the British ambassador, and General Horace Porter, the United States ambassador, to President Loubet was for the purpose of extending to the latter the thanks of Queen Victoria and President McKinley for the hospitality extended by the French government to the Venezuelan court of arbitration.

Mr. Luman has been a sufferer for a long time in the afflicted eye from glaucoma, and the operation was necessary in order to save the other one. Cocaine was the only anaesthetic used and the patient rallied well.

Mr. Luman has for a long time been considered one of the most solid men of this part of Kentucky, as he tips the beam at 400 pounds. He is a veteran of the war and served through many bloody campaigns as a private soldier in the Tenth Kentucky cavalry.

A WARNING

From Ex-Senator Washburn, the Distinguished Minnesota Republican.

"No Man Should Be Elected Who is in Sympathy With Trusts"—Combines Will Engulf Workmen in Sea of Distress.

The most scathing denunciation that has lately been uttered against the trusts comes from ex-Senator W. D. Washburn, the distinguished Minnesota Republican. His interview is too lengthy to publish in full, but the BULLETIN gives some of his strongest declarations:

"I most decidedly do not agree with Senator Hanna on his proposition that the formation of combines of capital must redound to the benefit of labor," said Mr. Washburn. "He certainly is wrong. There is nothing compatible in his position of standing for protection of the American laboring man and for the organization of capital for the purpose of controlling great industries."

"Hanna points to what he terms the present prosperous condition of labor as the result of trade combinations," was suggested.

"Then that prosperity is fictitious. If it exists it cannot continue. Why, the proposition is absurd. Trusts are not formed for the purpose of helping the laborer, but for the purpose of getting larger profits out of investment."

"It is the boast of the advocates of the trusts that the price of their products is reduced to the consumer. That lessening of price can only be brought about, if the profit is at the same time to be increased, by lowering the charges for turning the raw material into the manufactured article and putting that article into the hands of the consumer. When a trust gets control of a certain line of manufactures competition disappears, and just enough of the manufactured article is turned out to supply the demand. There is no excess on the market. If the means of manufacture exceed the necessary limit the mills are shut down and men thrown out of employment. It may be that those who remain employed may receive the old wage for the purpose of making a good appearance; those still remaining employed may even be given slightly higher wages. But the result is a lessening of the amount paid in the total for the production of the article or commodity. Labor receives less of the total value of the product. It is impossible that labor should be benefited. On the contrary, the very purpose of the trust is to take to itself some portion of the amount paid for labor."

"If protection has made trusts possible, then I believe protection should be withdrawn from the industries into which the trusts have entered."

"Protection is for the weak, not for the strong. It would be fair, humane, proper to protect the infant in its mother's arms, but no one wants to go to the extent of protecting the brawling giant who goes about preying on his neighbors. Here is the theory that should be applied to the trusts. America is and has been the great developer of the individual, there have hitherto been no handicaps placed on individual possibilities. Every man, according to his capacity, has made out his own destiny. The great fortunes of to-day started from very small beginnings in almost every instance, but the man who attempted to carve out a fortune for himself to-day with little to begin on would have a long, hard row to hoe."

When I was a young man there was no great centralization of wealth. At the time I came to Minneapolis there were no great fortunes and no great industries here. There were a lot of young men, most of them coming from the fields, as most of the energy and individuality of this country has, engaged in business in a small way. Competition between them was very sharp and every man of the lot had his opportunity. He had to reckon only with men like myself. I was in the lumber business in a very modest way; so and so and so and so (mentioning a number of men well known in the great business interests of the Northwest)

were in exactly the same boat with me. We did not have to truckle to trusts or combinations of capital. Many of these men succeeded in life beyond their most sanguine expectations. But they did it in a fair, honorable way. Do you suppose that it would have been possible for any of those men to succeed, with the start they had, in the lumber or flour business if they had to contend with the conditions that now exist? I do not."

"Here's the proposition: A trust owns or controls mills in, let us say, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Duluth, Chicago and perhaps in the East. All these mills are directed from a point remote from many of them, the object of the directors being to get all the money possible out of the investment. Labor conditions may be essentially different in St. Louis and Minneapolis. It may cost more to make flour in St. Louis than in Minneapolis. The trust directors, in order to equalize the cost for their whole system, reduce wages at St. Louis. There is a strike. They have no local interests in St. Louis, the market only requires so much flour. Very well, they say, shut down the St. Louis mills. The mills close, hundreds of men are thrown out of employment, but the trust has increased its revenues, and what redress is there for the St. Louis workmen who have been thrown out? None, for it is not to be contemplated that a universal strike would follow. The present so-called flour trust will wreck itself this way, the more readily from the fact that it has not been able to control all of the mills."

"So the trust is not only a menace to the workman, but to the small capitalist, who, led away by the promises of large returns, invests in trust stocks. That is where the great danger is to the commercial interests of the country. The trusts have been floated now when we are at the floodtide of a prosperity. Their stocks have been enormously watered, and great fortunes are made by the promoters."

"Sometime and somewhere there has got to be a process of liquidation. When that time comes the workmen under the trusts will find their apparent prosperity disappear. Wages will be cut with unsparring hand in the first effort to make a good showing on the trust balance sheet. Strikes will ensue, the trusts will be crippled and the stockholders and workmen will be engulfed in the same sea of distress."

"You take a desperate view of the situation."

"The situation itself is desperate. It is un-American. It is impossible that this people should allow to continue a condition which handicaps individual effort. I am not inclined to be a pessimist, but I am forced to view the situation with alarm."

"There should be no hesitancy in applying the ax to the root of the evil, and if protection of the trust industries is responsible for the trusts, then protection must go, and mind you, I am a firm believer in the theory and practice of protection. It has bred trusts in some degree."

"It must be so far repealed. And I insist that I am a Republican and a good one. State Legislatures should take the matter up earnestly and in conjunction with the National Government should enact laws making combinations of capital impossible. How is that to be done? I don't know. I am simply pointing out the evil. The law-makers must find the remedy. And they will find it."

"Individualism, as against combinations, must survive or the Republic will have lost its meaning and its mission. No men should be put in office who are in sympathy with trusts or trustmakers. The people can easily identify these men, and if the voters are properly aroused there will be no doubt of what they will do."

Logical Solutions.

We are frequently asked by our friends why it is that we are always busy, and on many days recently unable to wait on all our customers in anything like reasonable time. We can only answer to all inquiries, viz:

We positively let nothing go out of our house that we are not dead sure will fit and wear satisfactory.

As the large majority of our patrons leave the selection of their wants altogether to us, it puts the responsibility entirely upon our shoulders, therefore laying aside altogether the question of honesty, good business policy prompts us to do the right thing by them. Ninety-nine out of a hundred readers of this know our statement is true.

That our efforts to secure the proper stuff for this fall's trade are appreciated, hundreds of splendidly-dressed men and boys of Maysville, Mason and adjoining counties attest to.

Our smallpox visitation is a thing of the past, we hope not to return with cold weather. We will be glad to see our friends who have been avoiding our town. Our community was never in a healthier condition than at present.

This community is much saddened over the death of Mr. Ras Pickett who was a great favorite here.

Tobacco buyers are looking at the fine crops in this community. One new crop sold last week at 8 cents.

The school at Fern Leaf is being taught by Miss Bettie Norris of Ripley. She has a large school, and the pupils seem well pleased.

F. McIntire is busy putting down his tulip bulbs. He is a great admirer of the beautiful and is hard on moles, having killed as many as 85 in one season.

Our election day will soon be here, and Democrats will be found right side up, but some of them have fears as to the result. Elder J. W. Bullock is of the opinion that Mr. Goebel and Mr. Brown had better withdraw and let him have the field as a compromise.

Considerable improvement has been done in this community. Mr. Killgore, has had erected a new house, S. Robinson a new barn and Frank McIntire a fine stable. Old Franklin Seminary has been torn down and a new building put up. Elijah Case, of Germantown, was contractor for all this work.

EACH of the Blackwood Sisters is a soloist and their choruses and part-songs are very enjoyable. Hear them to-morrow night at Christian Church. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

THE Blackwood sisters are certainly a remarkable sextet. Their voices blended beautifully and ranged both high and low. Their program consisted of a pleasing mixture of song and reading, ranking their concert the best ever given here.—The News, Yellow Springs, Ohio.

The low price of admission should insure a large audience at the Christian Church to-morrow night. If you enjoy a musical treat hear this sextet. Tickets 15 and 25 cents.

"My Friend From India," by H. A. Du Souchet, one of the best and brightest comedies of the season, will be the attraction at the opera house tomorrow night. The fun revolves around the various and amusing situations and humorous phases arising from the efforts of a Kansas City pork packer to break into New York society. To accomplish this he seizes upon an unfortunate barber, who gets into the house through a freak of a scapegrace son, and booms him as a member of the learned "Order of the Yellow Robe" of India. The Smyth and Rice comedians represent some of the best comedy talent now on the stage.

A puny child is always an anxiety to the parents. There seems generally no reasons why the little one should be weak when it is so well fed. But the fact is that it does not matter how much food the child takes if the stomach cannot extract the nourishment from it. No benefit can be derived from just eating. That is the condition of many a sickly child. The stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition are not doing their work, and the body is really starving. It is little use to give fish foods, like cod liver oil or emulsions, in such a case, because these also have to be digested; they may lighten the stomach's labor but they don't strengthen it. Strength is what the stomach needs. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves and increases the action of the blood making glands. It is superior to every other preparation for children's use, on account of its body building qualities and also because it is pleasant to the taste and contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a valuable aid when the bowels are irregular. They are small. Children take them readily.

Church Bishops Meet.

GREAT GUNS

Were those used by our navy in destroying the Spanish fleet. We handle nearly every kind of firearm manufactured, but this is one of the sorts that have no place upon our shelves. However, we are headquarters for Sportsmen's Supplies in Northeastern Kentucky, and carry a full line of and Rifles; Hunting Coats, Vests, Leggings, Belts and Gun Cases; loaded and empty Shells; smokeless Shells; DuPont's Powder, black and smokeless. Look in our windows and see some of the old timers on exhibition, and also take a peep at the more modern weapons we display.
